HE SCORES TILLMAN

Gov. McSweeney Again Writes to the Senator.

Tillman Replies Promptly and Withdraws His Resignation.

The Governor's letter to Tillman reads as follows:

"Sir—Your letter of June 1 has been received. I have carefully noted its contents and the most charitable view which I can take of it is that it was written in the heat of passion and without due consideration. I note that you say that I have 'transcended my authority' and that the Governor 'can not compel a member of the United States Senate to hold his commission and exercise the functions of that office if he chooses to surrender it.' And that you 'decline for the present to withdraw' your resignation. Have you read carefully my letter addressed to you and to Senator McLaughlin, you must have seen that I did not express any desire to compel a member of the United States Senate to hold his commission and exercise the functions of that office if he chooses to surrender it. My sole purpose in returning the resignations was to ask you gentlemen to consider calmly and thoughtfully the consequences to the people of what I judged to be a hasty act and what you admit to have been a hasty act, and I must confess that I am somewhat surprised at the tone of your answer to my request. I considered the course which I took in this matter to be for the best interest of the people of South Carolina and I am responsible to them alone for my action, and, furthermore, I still believe that my course has met the approval of a majority of the citizens of the State, nor do I consider them unthinking citizens, as fully as any people on earth the rights and duties and responsibilities of citizenship, and who do not need the services of any one to tell them their duty."

"Your insinuation that I have been 'importuned' to 'await the convenience' of any present or would-be aspirants who are not just ready,' for various reasons, to enter the contest brought on so unexpectedly, and that for this reason my action has taken the direction it has, is unworthy of a man holding the high commission which has been given you by the people of South Carolina, and deserves no notice in this connection. However, I may say for my reply, and will give account for the course I have taken to the people who have honored me, and to no one individual. In this matter I have done what I thought best calculated to promote the present propriety and contentment of the people of my State and shall continue to do so, regardless of what any one man may say or think."

THE HOME GOLD CURE.

An Ingenious Treatment by Which Drunkards are Being Cured Daily in Spite of Themselves.

No Noxious Doses. No Weakening of the Nerves. A Pleasant and Positive Cure for the Liquor Habit.

It is now generally understood that Drunkards are a disease and not a race. A body filled with poison, and nerves completely shattered by periodical or constant use of intoxicating liquors, requires an antidote capable of neutralizing and eradicating this poison, and destroying the craving for intoxicants. Sufferers may now cure themselves at home without publicity or loss of time from business by this wonderful "Home Gold Cure" which has been perfected after many years of close study and treatment of inebriates. The faithful use according to directions of this wonderful discovery is positively guaranteed to cure the most obstinate case, no matter how hard a drinker. Our records show the marvelous transformation of thousands of Drunkards into sober, industrious and upright men.

Wives cure your husbands! Children cure your fathers! This remedy is in no sense a nostrum but is a specific for this disease only, and is so skillfully devised and prepared that it is thoroughly soothing and pleasant to the taste, so that it can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it. Thousands of drunkards have cured themselves with this priceless remedy, and as many more have been cured and made temperate men by having the "Care" administered by loving friends and relatives without their knowledge in coffee or tea, and believe to-day that discontinued drinking of their own free will. Do not wait. Do not be deceived by apparent and lying "improvement." Drive out the disease at once and for all time. The "Home Gold Cure" is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar, thus placing within reach of everybody a treatment more effective than others costing $25 to $50. Full directions accompany each package. Special advice by skilled physicians when requested without extra charge. Sent prepaid to any part of the world on receipt of one dollar. Address Dept. 1, Edwin B. Giles & Company, 2335 and 2337 Market Street, Philadelphia. All correspondents strictly confidential.

of my course. I did not think that a political campaign this summer could do any good, and acted accordingly to my belief. However, had the resignations been unconditional and unrestricted, my action might have been otherwise.

"With due respect for your opinion, I think I have as high a conception of the office of Senator and its powers as you or any other citizen of this State, and you must have known that the brief interview of which you refer meant I would simply meet the responsibility and perform my duty under the conditions. If you still wish to resign your commission and resign, I will exercise the authority and power vested in me by the people. Respectfully, etc.,

"M. B. MCSWEENEY,"
Governor.

TILLMAN RECALLS RESIGNATION.

Senator Tillman, protesting against the Governor's right to reject the senatorial resignations, to-night withdrew his resignation. In his letter to Gov. McSweeney Senator Tillman says:

"I have Senator McLaughlin's communication, in which he graciously consents, at your request, to hold on to his commission as United States Senator, and continue to serve the state, as he has done in the past, to the best of his ability."

"This leaves me one of three alternatives: To appeal to the Democratic executive committee to take the matter up and determine what the best interest of the party requires to be done; to appeal to the Senate itself to determine whether a resignation from that body, to take effect at some future time is binding; or to withdraw my own resignation."

"There are no precedents on this subject because, in the 125 years of our national life, with more than two hundred resignations from the Senate, no other has hitherto been willing to occupy the despicable attitude now assumed by Senator McLaughlin and forced on me. I am certain of one thing, that the executive of a state has no authority to decline a resignation that has been tendered, and I am equally certain that, had your Excellency confined your action within legal bounds, your appointees would be seated in the Senate when that body meets in December, and hold their seats until the Legislature should act in January."

"My chief regret is that I am forced by your action to engage in what the outside world will consider a game of opera bouffe by withdrawing from the combination resignation after Senator McLaughlin's unadvised and perilous action; but the purpose for which it was tendered has been thwarted by Senator McLaughlin's precipitous acceptance of executive advice. Bob Acres has been outdone for once. I have already said I had no motive or purpose in resigning except to force McLaughlin's resignation, and there is nothing for me to do but to accept the situation, and withdraw my own resignation, if it be lawful for me to do so."

MCLAURIN'S CHALLENGE.

Columbus, S. C., June 5.—With the Governor's "last word" at Senator Tillman and the withdrawal of the Senator's resignation, all would seem to be over, but to-night Senator McLaughlin, after speaking very bitterly of the senatorial resignation, made the declaration that if Tillman will now tender to the Governor the unconditional surrender of his office, he (McLaughlin) would consider this a direct challenge to him, and would likewise resign and enter the contest for Tillman's place.

In Memory of May Gorman.

She sleeps a peaceful dreamless sleep. She rests from labors past, Beneath the mound where myrtles creep In sunshine and blast.

'Twas Jesus called her to come home, In bliss she laid her down, A wanderer no more to roam, She fought and won the crown.

She left her treasured ones behind To mourn in bitter tears, But Jesus can each lone heart bind And drive away all fears.

Yes, she's gone to join the loved one, A brother gone before, Who was waiting to receive her On that bright and celestial shore.

Where the righteous soul can enter, And the weary soul can rest, There among the pure and holy, She forever will be blest.

There among the blessed angels, She is robed in spotless white, Where the sun forever shineth, Day is never dimmed by night.

S. D. M.

Aguinaldo to Visit the United States.

A special to the Tribune from Washington says: Aguinaldo is likely to come to the United States next fall and spend the winter in Washington. This information reached the War Department in the mail from Manila. He has informed Gen. McArthur of his desire to visit the United States for the purpose of studying American institutions and meeting American statesmen with the view of being more useful to his own people in the future. No objection to granting this wish at the proper time has occurred to the authorities at Manila. For the present, however, and until after the civil administration of the island is firmly established, it is not contemplated that Aguinaldo should be relieved from the restraint that is now regarded as a guarantee of his own safety.

It appears that Aguinaldo has been influenced to visit Washington by Judge Arellano, whose loyalty to the United States is unquestioned, and who believes that a study of the economic and political conditions in this country by the former insurgent leader will be extremely beneficial to the development of the archipelago.

A severe sprain will usually disable the injured person for three or four weeks. Many cases have occurred, however, in which a cure has been effected in less than one week by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm For sale by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

Who Killed Dr. Sanderson?

It has been more than three quarters of a century since the hanging of John Hamilton for the murder of Dr. Sanderson, and volumes have been written and published in newspapers in regard to the murder. Many people believed at the time, and many more believe now, that Hamilton was innocent of the crime. There is no one living now who is old enough to have any personal recollection of the events connected with the crime; but what I propose to say now was gathered from traditions as handed down from one to another, some of which was narrated to me by negroes, whose evidence in those days was not allowed in our courts. There was a story in the underground, the substance of which was as follows: Sanderson was killed by the then Sheriff of Barren county, the man who tied the noose around John Hamilton's neck. He was assisted in the murder by two other men who took dinner at the house of Hamilton's father the day before the killing. Their mission at the home of Hamilton on that day was to find out when Dr. Sanderson and Hamilton were going to start on their trip. It was agreed in their presence that Hamilton was to accompany his friend Sanderson to the cross roads and thus aid him in his journey. When the spot was reached, the two men mentioned with Sheriff Craddock were to attack and kill Sanderson and Hamilton for their money. Sanderson was killed by the three robbers, but Hamilton made his escape, and returned home. Criminals in those days were not allowed to testify in their own behalf. Hamilton pled innocent to the last. Sheriff Craddock and his two allies went free. But the history of Craddock in his later life became dark and criminal to the end of his life.

The history of the events on which these statements are based have been gleaned from old people many years ago, who lived in the vicinity of the tragedy, whose evidence was not produced in the trial, but strictly reliable notwithstanding. Thus it was, an innocent man gave up his life and was executed by the leading actor in this horrible crime, the true history of which will probably never be known until the dead shall rise and each man give a strict account of the deeds done in the body.—Citizen in Glasgow & Republican Life.

The poet's exclamation: "O Life! I feel the bounding in my veins," is a joyous one. Persons that can rarely or never make it, in honesty to themselves, are among the most unfortunate. They do not live, but exist; for to live implies more than to be. To live is to be well and strong—to arise feeling equal to the ordinary duties of the day, and to retire not overcome by them—to feel life bounding in the veins. A medicine that has made thousands of people, men and women, well and strong, has accomplished a great work, bestowing the richest blessings, and that medicine is Hood's Sassaaparilla. The weak, run-down, or debilitated, from any cause, should not fail to take it. It builds up the whole system, changes existence into life, and makes life more abounding. We are glad to say these words in its favor to the readers of our columns.

CASTORIA.

Resists the Signature of

A Millionaire and a Cent.

"Even if he is worth millions of dollars, it isn't any reason why he should be too proud to pick up a penny."

That is how people of Yonkers speak of the conduct of Alfred G. Vanderbilt, who some days ago spent several minutes hunting for a penny he dropped on the floor of the Getty House, says the New York Journal.

Mr. Vanderbilt, accompanied by his wife, formerly Miss Elsie French, and Yonkers attorney P. J. P. Jones,

While the horses were being changed the millionaire, great-grandson of the famous Staten Island Commodore, went with a small party into the cafe. Mr. Vanderbilt paid the clerk, and then doing so dropped a coin. By this time the horses were harnessed and the trumpeter was blowing on his horn the blast which means "All Aboard."

The rest of the men went out and climbed on the coach. Mr. Vanderbilt didn't. He searched under tables and moved the chairs, and eventually found the coin, which proved to be a cent, under the bootblack stand, where it had rolled.

"That young man's great grandfather and grandfather were not too proud to pick up the pennies, and he's inherited their habit," said a bystander as the coach drove away.

McKinley the Man.

All of the tributes paid the President of the United States in the course of his tour of the country have been so eloquent, and none other can be, as that paid him by one woman.

That woman is his wife. At New Orleans she, for the first time, allowed herself to be interviewed. However, for it was but the expression of an opinion casually given; but it is doubtful if anything ever said of the President could bring him quite as close to all the people as this from his wife.

"Do you know Major McKinley?" she asked. "Ah, no one can know him, because to appreciate him one must know him as I do. And I am not speaking now of Major McKinley as the President. I am speaking of him as my husband. If any one could know what it is to have a wife sick, complaining, always an invalid for twenty-five years, seldom a day well and yet never a word of unkindness has ever passed his lips; he is just the same tender, thoughtful kind gentleman I knew when first he came and sought my hand."

"I know him because I am his wife and it is my proudest pleasure to say this not because he is the President, but because he is my husband."

"I wish that I could have seen him yesterday; I love to see him among the people whom he seeks to serve so faithfully. But I read his speeches this morning. I read all his speeches I only wish that I could help him as I should."

"He is to kind, so good, so patient he gives me all the time he can; he never forgets me, no matter how busy he is. But I will be glad when he is out of public life; I did not want him to run a second time. I thought he had done enough for the country and now I know he has done enough, and when his time expires he will come home and we will settle down quietly and he will belong to me."

As a tribute to McKinley, the man and husband, nothing could be more eloquent.—Atlanta Constitution.

A Good Cough Medicine.

It speaks well for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy when druggists use it in their own families in preference to any other: "I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for the past five years with complete satisfaction to myself and customers," says Druggist J. Goldsmith, Van Etten, N. Y.

"I have always used it in my own family both for ordinary coughs and colds and for the cough following la grippe, and find it very efficacious." For sale by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

Some Don'ts Prepared by the Barber.

Don't come around to the shop before the barber has cleaned up his place of business.

Don't wait for the man in the first chair to be shaved; the other barbers are just as good and may be better.

Don't talk about the barber that shaved you last when you know you owe him a bill. Treat all barbers alike.

Don't hang around the shop after you have been waited on. You will drive customers away and make the barber angry.

Don't shuffle your feet and throw the newspapers around so as to make the barber hurry up. He will only make you wait longer.

Don't dry to read the newspapers in the chair while you are being waited on.

Don't try to come just as the barber is going to lunch. You know when the time comes to eat, so have your work done accordingly.

Don't wait until five minutes of 8 to get shaved when the barber closes his shop at 8. He wants to go home after working from 7 a. m. to 8 p. m.

Don't think you hurt a barber's feelings by refusing his chair. He is always glad of it. The man who does this is a crank and generally has a "box" to shave.

Don't ask for tonic and bay rum and then kick if you get charged for it. It costs the barber money, and he expects to make something out of it. He does not run his business for love.

Don't throw "hot air" into the air by telling him that he is the best barber in town. He's used to that, and it has no effect; if he isn't, it might make him nervous, so as to cut you.

Don't come in with a month's beard on and get shaved, and then ask the barber to trim the hair away from the ears and shave your neck, and only hand him the price of a shave. Maybe the barber smokes or may enjoy street car fare.—The Barber.

If the predisposition to worms in children is not cured they may become emaciated, weakly and in danger of convulsions. White's Cream Vermifuge is the most successful and popular remedy. Price 25 cents. J. H. Williams.

Senator Vest says if the prosperity now existing is continued up to the next election there will be little need of having any Democratic policy in 1904. He is right. Democracy lives off calamity. When it can't emit a calamity wall now and then it dies.—Benton (Ill.) Republican.

THE NEW WOMAN.

Mrs. Rose Parker, President William Downes Woman's Relief Corps No. 43, also chaplain Northwestern Legion of Honor, writes from 2419 Central Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn., as follows:

"For several years I suffered with a severe backache, and constant dragging pains. Some doctors gave me a name and some others, but none gave relief. Several of my friends urged me to try Peruna, so I was finally persuaded to try it and the first bottle brought blessed relief. I have used it off and on for three years. It keeps me in excellent health."

Dr. Rachel A. Magaw, 67 W. Jefferson street, Springfield, O., says: "Four Peruna is worth its weight in gold. I feel like a new woman."

"The coming of what is known as the 'new woman' in our country is not greeted by everyone as if she were a great blessing. But there is another new woman whom everybody is glad to see. Every day some invalid woman is exclaiming, 'I have been made a new woman by Dr. Hartman's home treatment.' It is only necessary to send name, address, symptoms, duration of sickness and treatment already received to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, O., and directions for one month's treatment will be promptly forwarded. The medicine can be obtained at the nearest drug store."
